LAW BOOKS.

NEW AND VALUABLE WORK

FOR LAWYERS, JUSTICES OF THE PEACE,
And all Connected with the Judicial Administration of the Government.

OF THE STATE OF INDIANA.

CONTAINING THE REVISED STATUTES OF 1882 with the amendments thereto, and the subsequent legislation, with notes on the judicial decisions.

EDITED BY
JAMES GAVIN AND OSCAR ORD.

Volume I, Published by
BINGHAM & DOUGHTY,
INDIANAPOLIS.

Judge David McDonald, one of the most eminent lawyers of the State, volunteered the following commendation of the work:

STATUTES OF INDIANA, BY GAVIN & ORD.—Some months ago, the above named gentlemen issued proposals for publishing in two volumes of some 800 pages each, all the statutes of the State of Indiana, with the amendments thereto, and the subsequent legislation, with notes on the judicial decisions. The first volume of the work is now published; and the manner of its execution, both mechanically and editorially, deserves the thanks of the profession.

The imperfect manner of publishing our statutes under State authority, has always been a source of great inconvenience to the Indiana lawyer. The revision of 1882, as well as the statutes passed since that year, might almost at any time be published without any ink. Up to this time the lawyer has constantly been under the necessity of turning over, leaf by leaf, the volumes of our statutes to find any particular enactment. And every one knows how annoying and provoking this is, especially in the busy of business as in our Courts. Happily for the profession, the publishers under consideration have performed this duty of things in the future. The first volume of our Gavin & Ord's work contains all the statutes in convenient form, which to every practicing lawyer in the State is itself worth the money which the volume costs.

The volume under review contains another excellent feature. All pages are supplied with valuable marginal indices, so that a glance at the margin is sufficient to apprise the reader of the contents of the page.

Another matter of great importance to the lawyer in this volume is a good collection of the subjects of all legislation since 1881. Heretofore, the lawyer in examining our legislation on any given subject had to find what was relevant to it in the revision of 1882, and then to turn over the pages of the volumes of subsequent statutes, to find the law for that subject. This is a tedious and often fruitless task. In this volume, however, the provisions contained in that revision, and even then he would often feel doubtful whether he had found all the legislation on the subject of his inquiry. Messrs. Gavin and Ord have relieved us of all this trouble and doubt. They have collected together in consecutive pages all the statutes made since 1881 on the same subject. Thus, on pages 372 to 377 of the first volume they have collected all our legislation now in force on the subject of husband and wife, including the act of 1882 and three acts of 1887. And they have followed the same mode of collection, in appropriate consecutive pages, in every other body of legislation.

A still more valuable feature are the copious and accurate notes contained in the volume in question. This volume includes the Constitution of the United States, the Constitution of Indiana, and several important acts of our own states now in force. The numerous decisions of the Courts on the various provisions contained in these Constitutions and statutes are found at the bottom of the appropriate pages, in the form of brief and accurate references. Messrs. Gavin & Ord seem to have performed this part of their work exceedingly well. It must have cost them much time and labor to do this, but they have greatly lessened the labor of the practicing lawyer, and have well merited his grateful approval.

In every respect this volume is highly commendable to the diligence, accuracy, talents and the taste of its editors, as well as to the mechanical skill and neatness of its publishers. It must raise the rank of the book, solely because it has been so well prepared. It is a work of high commendation for their performance. It is, therefore, due to them, without any reservation, to recommend it to every one, to publish this notice of the book, over its own proper name.

DAVID McDONALD.

The first volume is now ready and being delivered to subscribers.

PRICE $1.50.
